

Meet Dr. Beth Farokhi, Candidate For Georgia State School Superintendent

Dr. Beth Farokhi is running for Georgia State School Superintendent in 2010!

A long time resident of Cobb County, Dr. Farokhi has been in the education field for over 30 years, starting as a public school teacher in Cobb County Schools. For nearly six years she taught elementary school in an innovative curriculum setting and served on county-wide committees for curriculum, textbook selection, mathematics curriculum objectives, and appointed by the superintendent to revamp non-graded curriculum and reporting system for grades 1-12.

Beth was born in Augusta, Georgia where she attended public schools. She double majored in Elementary Education and Health and Physical Education at LaGrange College. Beth obtained her master's degree from Emory University and her doctorate degree from the University of Georgia.

Beth's dedication to education in Georgia reflects her belief that "our children deserve the very best public schools and teachers throughout Georgia." She fervently believes that "our schools are more than test scores, buildings, and partisan politics; they are our teachers, our school personnel, our children, and our community. As Georgia State Superintendent, Beth pledges "to use the tremendous resources we have in Georgia to give our teachers the support they need and to develop a curriculum that embraces excellence so that Georgia provides the best public education in the country." So please make sure to join your friends and neighbors Tuesday night, July 14, 7:30PM at our new meeting place – Unitarian Universalist Metro Atlanta North – just minutes away from our former meeting place!
